ACCESSING JBLM: ID REQUIREMENTS for Unescorted Access to JBLM for non-DoD visitors has changed. A standard Washington state driver license or ID card can no longer be used to get a visitor's pass for access to Joint Base Lewis-McChord, because neither complies with Real ID Act of 2005 requirements. Washington is several states that do not comply with this law. To determine if your state's driver's license is compliant with this Act, please visit <https://www.dhs.gov/real-id>. Washington State Enhanced Driver's Licenses and IDs are Real ID Act compliant, so either can be used to prove identity. Visitors with this ID must still go to the Visitor Center to get a base pass. People without a Washington State Enhanced Driver's License or ID must provide one of the following forms of ID to get a base pass:

- DoD Uniformed Services Identification and Privileges Cards
- U.S. Passport or U.S. Passport Card
- VA Issued Health Card
- Permanent resident card or Alien Registration Receipt Card (INS Form I-551).
